New Look for PSNC website

The PSNC website, one of the most visited and authoritative websites for information about NHS community pharmacy has been re-launched.

At its familiar address, www.psn.org.uk, the PSNC website maintains its strong focus on pharmacy and health news. New additions include a news stream on the front of the site highlighting local news stories from LPC websites across the country and a facility to sign up for RSS feeds to alert subscribers as news is added to the site.

The site will continue to be developed over the coming months with the planned addition of a PSNC e-mail service providing subscribers with regular e-mail updates including a weekly digest of the top stories and the latest news as it breaks.

Commenting on the launch of the new site PSNC Head of Information Services Lindsay McClure said: "The PSNC website has been re-structured with improved navigation and a fresh new design. Updated daily, the PSNC website provides a wide range of guidance and resources about the NHS community pharmacy service in England. The new PSNC site is more accessible and easy to use with new features to keep people informed and up to date"
